

THE END OF THE MOTORWAY

What began in Windsor as snarls before breakfast, terminates here with the green full stop of a roundabout.
Speed pulls in for a welcome break.

And life is one lane with no overtaking,
of waiting for cows to choose their field,
of muck on bonnets thrown by a tractor,
of never arriving when you say you will.